

Written by Len Thomson

Thursday, 25 March 2010 20:21 - Last Updated Friday, 26 March 2010 21:12

If their other retail outlet in Ramsbottom is anything to go by, according to the owner Sara Wilkins, then Valencian Paella dishes will soon be flying off the shelves of

The Cooks Emporium

at

111 King Street, Knutsford

. Hopefully, they will not be responsible for an increase in sightings of UFO's around the town.

The opening is scheduled for this Saturday 27th March. With additional retail units being let to new businesses due to open soon, promises to offer visitors and residents a unique mix of independent outlets with items and products that are uniquely sourced.

King Street